Saturday 10 December

Kapiti Live Music Club year end bash for 2011

Kapiti Live Music Club will be meeting at the Dog and Duck Jazz Bar on Saturday 10 December at 2pm. Anyone who enjoys live music is invited to come to the final event for 2011. The afternoon opens with the annual "blind date" concert. Keen (or foolish) players threw their names in a hat and groups were drawn at random. The groups have now been choosing and practising material for 3 weeks and on Saturday will amaze and entertain you with their musical virtuosity, diversity and /or pure fun. This is always a fun event for the performers and for the audience. The performances will be followed by an open mic – and may even evolve into a jam session. Everyone is welcome to bring an instrument or voice. See you there. Admission by gold coin koha.

2012?

The Blind Date is our last event for 2011. On 15 February 2012, our first regular club night for the year, we will be entertained by Tandrom – Fiona Smythe, Simon Burgess and Richard Prowse. This will be our first concert for the year.

We will also need to hold an AGM to elect a committee to keep the club running another year. Current president, Ruth Birnie, will be leaving the area, so we need to find another president. Gary has been doing a great job of the website, learning to run the pa, etc. Think about whether you could take on some role for the club in 2012 – the club also needs a treasurer (someone to bank the money and pay the performers etc), a secretary, and a few committee members. Being on the committee can be fun, and gives you the chance to meet the performers and help decide what happens in the club. The AGM will be held on 19 February at 3pm
